Holidays and important days in Ukraine

Every country has its own traditions and holidays. On the first of January we celebrate New Year's Day. Old Year with all troubles leaves us forever and the New Year with all our hopes knocks on our door. This is everybody's favourite holiday. Decorating the Christmas tree, going to New Year parties, getting presents, we love all this and impatiently wait for New Year's Eve to come.

Ukrainian people celebrate many holidays. Among them is Christmas Day. January the sixth is Orthodox Christmas. This is connected with the great event – the birth of Jesus Christ. On the eve of the holiday people go from house to house and sing “kolyadky” ,wish each other happiness, good luck. The children are given cakes, sweets and money. On this day many families attend churches to be present at services held there.

International Women's Day is a great holiday too. Nowadays this date has lost its political meaning and become just a day when we thank our women for everything they do for us at home and at work, say our good wishes, give them flowers and presents. On March the 9th we celebrate the birthday of the greatest Ukrainian poet, writer and artist Taras Shevchenko.

Easter is a spring holiday. This is the day, to stop and think about Jesus Christ's death for our salvation, about what we have to do to improve ourselves and the life around us. At Easter we celebrate the rising of Jesus from the tomb three days after his Crucifixion. Most Easter traditions are associated with Easter Monday when boys set out to call their female friends and relatives and sprinkle them with perfume. Girls in return treat them to homemade cakes or some drinks and present them with eggs painted mainly red, green or yellow. Children are also presented at Easter with chocolate Easter bunny.

May the 1st, is the day of international solidarity of working people.

On August the 24th , Ukrainian independence was proclaimed and we celebrate it as a national holiday.

December the 24th is the Catholic Christmas, widely celebrated all over the world and partly in our country.

And then the New Year's Eve comes, and everything starts again.

My working day

At 6 o'clock in the morning the alarm – clock rings. I am an early riser and I always jump out of bed as soon as I hear the alarm clock goes off. Having done my morning exercises I go to the bathroom where I take a shower and brush my teeth. I dry myself with a towel, go to the mirror and comb my hair. Then I go to the kitchen. I like having a big breakfast. I usually start with some juice then I have ham and eggs, some buttered toast and jam. I like to drink milk or a cup of tea.

After breakfast I go to institute. At 8 o'clock the lectures begin. Each lecture last for 90 minutes. After each lecture we have a break. After the second lecture we have a longer break to have a meal.

Normally we have 3 or 4 lectures a day. Lectures are usually over at 3 o'clock. If I have no more lectures I go home, wash my hands and have dinner. I lay the table, put a plate, a glass, a knife, a fork, and a spoon at my place. I eat a plateful of soup and chops with fried potatoes. For the desert I eat some fruits or drink a glass of juice.

After dinner I take a short rest and then start doing my home assignments. As a rule it takes me about four hours to cope with them properly. When my mother comes home from work I help her with the housework. I clean our flat, dust the furniture, Hoover the carpets and polish the floor. I help my mother to prepare the meals. In the summer I look after the garden. I weed the flower-beds and mow the lawn.

When I have free time, my friends and I go to the theatre or cinema. If an interesting programme is on I watch TV.

In the evening I have supper. After it I go to bed.

My house

Most people prefer houses to flats because in a house there is more room and more privacy. They like to have a garden in which to grow flowers or sit on the lawn.

I live in a spacious house with a big garden. Our house consists of a living – room, a dining-room, a bedroom, a bathroom, a kitchen, a study and a toilet. It is comfortable and equipped with all modern conveniences such as hot and cold water, electricity, gas, central heating and telephone.

When you come to see us you will first enter the into an entrance hall. It's large and cozy. There is a stand for hats, coats and umbrellas and a mirror on the wall.

We have a light and pleasant living-room. There are full-length curtains on the windows. There is one-and-a-half meter high wooden panel all around the walls. A thick, blue fitted carpet completely covers the floor. Along the wall there is a dark brown wall unit and in the focal point of the room is the elegant three-piece suite, consisting of a sofa and two comfortable leather armchairs. The book-case stands in the corner with the television on one side and hi-fi equipment on the other.

Our dining-room is about the same size as the kitchen. The dining-room consists of a dresser, where we keep all the plates and the cutlery, a dining table and four chairs.

In our bedroom there is a double bed. The bedside table, the wardrobe and the chest of drawers are along the wall. On the bed we have quilted bedspreads and the floor is covered with a wall-to wall carpet.

The smallest room is the study. There is a writing table with a table lamp and many book-shelves. I study there.

Our kitchen is fully fitted. In the kitchen we have a cooker, a fridge, a food processor, a dishwasher, a micro-wave oven, a deep fries. There are two tables and stools.

In the bathroom we have a large tub and the wash basin. There is a towel rack, bathroom shelves, a soap dish, a mirror on the wall. We like our house very much.

At the cinema

The cinema belongs to one of the most popular kinds of entertainments. In each city there is a great number of cinemas.

As for me I am a great cinema-goer. I prefer feature films, but I am also fond of adventure and detective films. There are many different kinds of films: feature films, horror films, thrillers, newsreels, cartoons and science-fiction.

As a rule I buy ticket in advance. It is better to come to the cinema a couple of minutes before the film starts. On the walls of the foyer we can look at the portraits of film stars.

I like to sit not far from the screen, in front rows. As usually, before the show of the films they give a newsreel or some short films like a popular science film, a travelogue, a documentary. It lasts for several minutes. Newsreels are of great interest as well. The main film is usually cinemascope and dubbed. I don't like films with subtitles. It spoils the view and distracts my attention. An undubbed film is very good for language learning. And if you master the given language you can even enjoy the film without looking at the subtitles.

The best film I have seen this year was an American film "Over the top". If I like a film very much, I go to see it second time.

At the theatre

There are theatres in every town and city. There is one theatre in our town. It is the Hungarian National Theatre. I am a great theatre goer and see all the performances staged there. Our theatre stages a lot of modern and classical plays.

As you enter the theatre there is usually a big foyer, where people can meet before the performance. The two main parts of a theatre are the stage and the auditorium. They are separated from each other by a curtain. Between the stage and the seats there is the orchestra pit. The public occupies the stalls, the dress-circle, the balconies and gallery.

We usually get our ticket in the box-office. We leave our clothes in the cloak-room. Before the performance we buy a playbill to see what the cast is. Then we take our seats and wait for the lights to go down. Soon the lights go down, the curtains go up, and the play begins.

A play usually consists of two acts, but sometimes there are three acts with two intervals between them. During the interval you can go to the refreshment room where you can discuss the play over a nice drink.

I suppose the most frequently played dramatist is Shakespeare and he is very popular in most countries. His most popular plays are the following: Romeo and Juliet, The Merchant of Venice, Hamlet, Richard III.

Travelling by plane

Travelling by air is one of the quickest and most comfortable way of travelling. In comparison to a passenger plane the fastest express train seems to crawl at a snail's pace.

Air travel saves time. You simply book your ticket. Then you get to the airport. First of all you register yourself and weigh your luggage. After that you get a boarding card which indicates the flight number, the destination, the class (comfort or tourist) and the seat number. The bus takes you to your plane. When you have climbed the steps up to the plane, stewardesses greet you on board the plane. You show your boarding card to them and take your seat. They help everyone to put the hand-luggage into the luggage compartment, to sit comfortably in the reclining seat and to adjust the safety belts. When everybody has fastened the belts the plane goes down the taxiway then begins to pick up speed and races along the runway. In a moment it is off the ground and begins to ascend. You take off and get into another world leaving all the earth troubles behind you. Looking down you watch the earth and it is very beautiful.

When the flight comes to the end you land at the airport of your destination.

Travelling by train

There are various means of travel. We can travel by train, boat, plane, car and finally we can travel on foot.

Nowadays people often travel on business, for pleasure or even for education. I don't think there are people in the world, who don't like travelling. People love moving around, they travel inland and abroad.

I quite often travel by train, especially when I travel on business. With a train you have speed, comfort and pleasure combined.

We buy our ticket beforehand and on the day of departure we go to the railway station. Tickets can be purchased from railway station and travel agency. If you go on a day trip it is better to buy a return ticket than a single one as you pay less and you don't have to worry about buying tickets for your journey back.

At a railway station we can see a lot of people hurrying to and fro. We can see the crowd at the booking office getting tickets, the porters pulling luggage along the platforms to the waiting trains and passengers hurrying to board the train.

We come to our train and find our car. Then we show our ticket to the guard and go into the carriage.

Soon we hear a whistle of engine, and the train pulls out of the station. We are on our way. We start up a conversation with our fellow passengers and if we feel hungry we may go to the dining-car.

After meal we feel tired, so we get into our berth and begin to absorb the beauty of changing scenes – the fields of wheat and corn, the meadows, the rivers, the forests and mountains.

Travelling by sea

For me there is nothing like travelling by sea. Big ocean liners are like floating cities with all modern conveniences. They can transport several thousand passengers and together with the crew there are as many people on them as in small-sized town. It is very pleasant to be out at sea and sit in a deck-chair to take the sun.

Nothing can be compared with sea, with fresh sea wind blowing in the face, with cries of the gulls, with beautiful sunset at sea. If you wish to take a voyage, you book your ticket beforehand and on the day of departure you reach the pier crowded with cars, luggages and passengers. You hurry on board and go up the gangway. Then you reach the main deck. The sailor shows us the cabin. It is a small beautifully furnished room with bathroom and round windows in the ship's side made of very thick glass.

After some minutes we hear the ship's siren, ship weighs anchor and slowly slips out the harbour. The captain and his crew ensure a comfortable voyage for the passengers. They carry out a highly responsible job steering the ship and entertaining the passengers. There is a wide choice of sports and entertaining facilities: you can go to dance, have a good meal in a restaurant, listen to concerts, watch films, walk on the deck or have a dip in the swimming pool of the liner.

My day – off

Sunday and Monday are our days off. On our days off we do not study, we have a rest. We can use our free time according to our will.

I never get up early on my day off. I get up later than usual. In the morning I usually open the window, air the room and do my morning exercises. It is very useful for me to take a warm shower.

On Sundays I prefer to prepare breakfast myself. I eat slowly enjoying the taste of the meals and feeling a great delight of freedom.

I make up my mind in advance what to do on my days off. My activities on these days are various and depend on my plans for the given day.

If the weather is fine, I go for a walk to the nearest wood or park. I sometimes go to the cinema or to the theatre with my friends. As for the tickets we book them beforehand.

If the weather is bad, I stay at home, read books or watch TV programme. Very often my relatives come to see us. We sit together and talk. As a rule on these days we have family dinner.

In summer I like to go to the country with my parents on Sundays. We have a good rest there.

In winter I never stay indoors on Sundays. I like winter sports and games. I go in for skiing and skating. In winter I spend my free time in the mountains. I come back tired but happy and full of joy and energy.

The Mass Media

The mass media or communications are the press, radio and television.

Every day we read newspapers and magazines, listen to radio and watch TV. Nowadays there are so many newspapers and magazines, radio stations and TV channels that we have to be very selective and give preference to some of them.

The Ukrainian press is free from direct government control, but there are state-owned dailies: Holos Ukrainy ( The Voice of Ukraine ), Uryadovy Courier (Government Courier) and independent: Vechirny Kyiv ( Evening Kyiv ) and others. We have several English periodicals including bilingual ones. For example, newspaper “News from Ukraine” and magazine “Ukraine” are available in English. Newspapers may be weekly, monthly or quarterly.

The newspapers and magazines I read are the most readable ones with a large readership or circulation. ## At the post-office

If you want to send a telegram or a letter you must go to the post-office. The work of the post makes it possible for us to maintain connections with our relatives and friends living far away from us, in the country or abroad. You can also subscribe to newspapers and magazines at the post-office and the postman delivers them to you without delay.

The central post-office in our town occupies a huge building. There are some windows with a clerk, sitting behind each of them. The first is marked PARCEL POST, which handles all parcels. There is a parcel balance there where your parcel is weighed. At the counter for the sale of STAMPS you can buy stamps, coins, postcards, letter writing paper and envelopes. At the MONEY ORDER counter you can send money by money order. At every post office there is a NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES counter which sells the latest issues of dailies and weeklies.

If you want to send a telegram, you must get a form, fill it and hand it in at window. If you wish to send your letter, you do not need to go to the post-office. You put it into an envelope, seal it and drop it into the nearest pillar-box. You must not forget to address an envelope. In Ukraine we write the addressee's name and address on the left-hand side of the envelope. The sender's name and address go in the right-hand corner of the envelope.

Eating out

To eat out means to have meal in a restaurant. If you want to dine out you have the choice of going to a first-class restaurant, a self-service restaurant or in summer to an open-air restaurant.

If people have time and money, they go to a first-class restaurant. When you enter a restaurant, first you have to leave your coat in the cloak room. After that you enter the dining-room and look for an empty table yourself or the headwaiter shows you to one. Some people reserve tables in advance. You sit down at the table and ask the waiter for the menu. You go through the menu and give the order to the waiter. Sometimes you ask the waiter what he can recommend you. Some restaurants have certain special dishes which can't be eaten at other places. Sometimes you have to ask the waiter what is included in some names of dishes written on the menu because a lot of dishes have a fancy name. Paying for your dinner at a restaurant isn't always very simple. You have to make a sign to the waiter and let him know that you would like to ask for the bill. You usually give the waiter a tip or leave it on the table.

I don't often go to a restaurant to have a full meal there because in Ukraine to eat out regularly is not a cheap form of entertainment. I sometimes go to a café or a bar with my friends but there we usually go Dutch.

Some people choose the self-service restaurants if they are in a hurry and they want to have a quick meal. You go into the restaurant and choose the dish you want to eat from the list hanging on the wall. Then you pick up a tray, knife, fork and spoon and queue at the counter where the food is on display. You pick out what you want and put it on your tray, which you have to push along a special rack till you reach the cashier. After paying you take your tray to any table you like. Self-service restaurants have the advantage of offering inexpensive dishes. You can have a good meal in ten minutes and there is no waiter so you don't have to give a tip.

Beer, wine and spirits as well as non-alcoholic drinks like coke or sprite can be bought at a pub.

Usually the only food available is sandwiches. I have never been to an English pub but I heard that the hours during which English pubs are allowed to open vary in different parts of the country. They can stay open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

English language in international communication

Today nearly 600 million people around the world use the English language. Only half of these people speak English as their first language. About the same number use it as a second language. It is an official language in 44 countries. In many others it is the language of business, commerce and technology. English language is useful for international communication.

Now I'm a student and I have my point of view about this language. I want to reach success in my future profession and English will help me. Modern life is impossible without communication. This communication is between people of one country and between people of different nations. So it is necessary to know at least one foreign language. Besides, I think to achieve real success in my future is impossible without speaking a foreign language. If you are a scientist you need it to read literature. Many books and papers in special fields are in English. If you want to be a good specialist in any field you need a foreign language to receive new information on your specialty. If you are a businessperson you need a foreign language to have business with foreign partners.

aren't intelligent enough if you spend much money on paying the private interpreter instead of paying for your own education.

English is one of the most popular foreign languages. It is the most spoken language in international communication.

Seasons and weather

There are four seasons in the year – spring, summer, autumn and winter. Spring is the season when nature awakens from winter sleep. The days become longer, the nights – shorter. It often rains, and at the very beginning it even snows. But gradually the sun shines more and more brightly, the winter snow melts, the green grass covers the earth, the trees and bushes are full of blossom. It smells of flowers everywhere. They are so fresh and lovely. The nicest spring flowers are snowdrops, violets, daffodils and daisies. Then the birds fly back from far distant warm countries. They build their nests and sing so gaily and happily that even a man in dismal mood is put in spirits. It is very nice in spring. It is one of the favourite seasons.

The days become longer and warmer. The bright sunshine scorches the earth, the sky is blue and clean. But sometimes the sky can overcast with loud black clouds. It thunders and lightens. That's a thunderstorm. After the thunderstorm the air is remarkable. Then we have a lot of warm or even hot days. Most people take their holidays in summer. They rest and have a lot of fun.

But the days becoming shorter, the sun rays losing their force. Autumn is approaching. The trees that not so long bloomed with flowers are covered with red, yellow and brown leaves. They are laden with ripening fruit. Day by day it gets colder and colder. The trees have cast off their leaves and they look bare.

The sky is overcast with black, heavy clouds. The air becomes frosty, there is a drop in the temperature.

Winter is the coldest season in the year. It often snows in winter. The snow is white and clean. There is a lot of snow on the ground. December is a rather snowy winter month. There are usually hard frosts in January. In February the frost breaks. We feel the smell of spring in the air.
